

Kemerton Industrial Park

It's Your Opportunity

Doing Business
In the Kemerton Industrial Park

Kemerton Industrial Park offers affordable vacant land suitable for heavy industry in the heart of Australia's South West Region.

The park is 17 kilometres north east of the City of Bunbury and its deepwater port, and 140 kilometres south of Perth, the Western Australian State capital.

Here's what South West business leaders are saying about Kemerton Industrial Park:

Andy Males,

Lyondell
Operations Manager - Bunbury

Kemerton Industrial Park is an ideal location for our titanium dioxide processing operations with its reliable energy supply and easy access to a deepwater port at Bunbury. Kemerton is a well-planned industrial estate with a generous buffer zone which means any company that locates here will have minimal impact on its neighbours. The industrial park is supported by a fine road network, and all the social infrastructure a major company could need for its employees, is in the nearby City of Bunbury.

David Jones,

Transfield Services'
Executive General Manager
Infrastructure Assets

Location was an important factor when Transfield decided to build its power station at Kemerton Industrial Park. Kemerton was selected because of its location in the hub of a 330KV transmission system. We had a choice of three locations, but Kemerton was preferred. Our client, Western Power, has power stations in Perth and Collie, so Kemerton helps them to diversify in location. Kemerton Industrial Park has a lot of potential for future development and is also conveniently located near Bunbury and port facilities.

Clive Pearson,
Chairman,
Kemerton Industrial Park
Coordinating Committee

Kemerton Industrial Park offers prime affordable industrial land in the heart of Australia's South West. It can cater for the largest of heavy industry down to the smaller specialist operations. All of the zoned industrial land is surrounded by a significant buffer zone. The park is located near the port city of Bunbury and is just two hours by road from the Western Australian State capital, Perth. It's an opportunity not to be missed.

Jim Brosnan,
Chairman,
Bunbury Port Authority

Kemerton Industrial Park is an excellent location for heavy industry right in the heart of Australia's South West. We at the Bunbury Port Authority already service a number of clients at the park and would welcome any inquiries from companies considering establishing at Kemerton. We work in partnership with industry to provide competitive logistical solutions.
